Description

Project management requires a wide variety of skills from political/social analysis to communication skills, from people to resources management skills, from fundraising skills to evaluation techniques etc... Obviously, this T-Kit could not exhaustively deal with all these issues and the authors have chosen to address the main elements relevant for international youth projects. Written by experienced youth work trainers at the international level, this T-Kit is largely inspired from 'project management training events run in the context of international youth work and draws on concrete training examples.
