Description

The aim of this report is to convey the main points of a training seminar organised in close co-operation with the UNHCR Representation in Strasbourg. It brought together young forcibly displaced persons and other young people working in their favour. The organisers and participants of the seminar were driven by the strong conviction that all young people need to participate in building Europe, that social cohesion implies the inclusion of marginalised, minority youth and that nobody can talk about young refugees' needs and assets better than young refugees themselves.
