Description

This is the third edition of the guidance paper Credit Where It’s Due and accompanying Frequently Asked Questions which were initially developed in June 2004 by The National Youth Agency (The NYA) in discussion with the Department for Education and Skills (DfES) and revised in October 2004 following a period of ‘field trial’. The original guidance provides youth services with clarification on some of the benchmarks first identified in Resourcing Excellent Youth Services (REYS) and Margaret Hodge’s subsequent letter of 3 December 2003. In this revision the guidance has been brought in line with the Best Value Performance Indicators (BVPIs), and the Frequently Asked Questions paper considerably expanded to take account of the range of queries raised.
